TAFT GIVEN LITTLE HOPE TO LIVE OUT DAY

FORMER PRESIDENT GROWING WEAKER; HAS FITFUL NIGHT

UNLIKELY THAT DISTINGUISHED MAN CAN STAVE OFF RAVAGES OF SICKNESS

FORMER CHIEF JUSTICE ABLE TO TAKE LITTLE NOURISHMENT, BULLETIN SAYS

Washington, Feb. 28. — (U.P.) — Little hope was held out for William Howard Taft to remain alive throughout the day. His condition was rapidly sinking. Doctors remained at his bedside constantly.

Washington, Feb. 28.—(U.P.) — Life slowly ebbed from William Howard Taft today and after a fitful, restless night, the former president was reported weaker.

At noon Mr. Taft's doctors, Francis Hagner and Thomas Claytor, issued the following bulletins:

"The former chief justice is slightly weaker. He is able to take little nourishment. There is no decided change in his condition since yesterday."

The doctors returned to the house shortly after 2 P. M. and when they came out said there had been no change in the patient's condition since morning.

There was no official bullettin issued and they said the next one would be at 6:30 P. M.

Shortly before the doctors made their afternoon visit, Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann, Vice President Curtis' sister, visited the Taft home.

Robert A. Taft, the former president's son, arrived at the house at 11:35 A. M., and was escorted immediately to the room where his father is dying. The younger Taft had come here from Cincinnati.

It seemed likely that the sick man would be able to recognize his son, but conversation is impossible, Dr. Hagner said. The physician added that when the doctors entered the room this morning the former chief justice smiled wanly at them, but was unable to speak.

Many distinguished visitors called today at the three-story house on quiet Woming Avenue, where Mr. Taft's remarkable stamina has warded off for days the ravages of long illness, grief and overwork.

Last night was a fitful one. The former president is ill on the second floor of the house and during the night lights flickered on and off in the window, showing constant attention to the very tired old statesman and jurist.

Justice Edward T. Sanford of the supreme court was one of the first visitors. He was followed by George Wickersham, chairman of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, and David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of navy in charge of aeronautics.

Supreme Court Justice Stone, who resides close by the home of the former president, passed back and forth in front of the house several times and inquired of newspapermen regarding Taft's condition. Later he posted his secretary in front of the house to obtain the latest information.

Physicians, unable to find definite cranial or bodily injuries, are frankly puzzled over the boy's case.

The official weather forecast said a cold wave would settle down over northern Minnesota and North Dakota tonight, probably carrying a heavy snowfall for some regions.

Snook Doomed to Die in Electric Chair for Killing His Illicit Sweetheart, Theora Hix

EXECUTION SET TONIGHT; 11TH HOUR PLEA FAILS

SNOOK EATS HEARTILY, EXERCISES AND SHOWS CALM IN FACE OF DEATH

WIFE MAKES FUTILE PLEA TO GOVERNOR; DEATH TO COME BEFORE SUNDOWN

Ohio State Penitentiary, Columbus, Feb. 29.—(U.P.) — Dr. James Howard Snook, former university professor, who killed his illicit sweetheart, Theora Hix, because she was "too dominant," saw his last dawn today unless some miracle prevents his execution tonight.

Denied clemency despite frantic eleventh hour pleas, the ex-veterinary mentor, who philandered and turned killer, arose this morning as usual. He ate heartily, exercised vigorously and otherwise showed that he could be calm in the face of death.

Snook may break before sundown when he is to be strapped in the electric chair, but Warden P. I. Thomas and his cellmates will remember him for his ability to joke with those about him in the face of death.

His last hope of reprieve or commutation failed when Governor Meyer Y. Cooper, after a joint conference with E. O. Rickett, chief of Snook's counsel, the county prosecutor and members of the state board of clemency refused to intervene.

Earlier, Helen Marple Snook, his wife and mother of his three-year-old baby girl, made a personal but futile plea to the governor.

'Poker Alice,' Last of Colorful Coterie of the Old West, Takes Count

Rapid City, S. D., Feb. 28.—(U.P.)—"Poker Alice," last of that colorful coterie of the old west that numbered "Calamity Jane," "Wild Bill" Hickock, "Deadwood Dick" and "Cattle Kate," has smoked her last cigar, uttered her last resounding oath and gone to join the good tall men who died under gamblers' six guns about her faro table.

On the charts at St. John's hospital here where she died yesterday of old age and complications following an operation, she is recorded as Mrs. Alice Tubs, 77, of Bear Butte Creek, near Sturgis.

But she was "Poker Alice," as good a man as the next, in the old days. From the gambling tables of Silver City, N. M., to the faro layouts at Deadwood, S. D., when Deadwood echoed to the clink of whiskey glass and poker chip, the straight-limbed, keen-eyed frontier woman was known as a "big time" gambler.

MELLON ENDORSES THE BILL LIMITING DOUBLE TAXATION

ADVOCATES RECIPROCATION IN TAX EXEMPTION ON CERTAIN FOREIGN ASSETS

BILL DESIGNED TO RELIEVE AMERICANS LIVING ABROAD, FOREIGNERS LIVING HERE

Washington, Feb. 29.—(U.P.) — The Hawley bill to limit double taxation of concerns doing business in more than one country—designed to relieve Americans living abroad and foreigners living here—was endorsed today by Secretary of Treasury Mellon at a hearing before the house ways and means committee.

"The movement to mitigate the evils and burdens that arise from taxation of the same income, profits or property by two or more countries has in recent years gathered considerable momentum due to the high post-war rates and the growing realization that double taxation of this character is unscientific and unsound," Mellon said.

The measure under consideration by the committee would exempt from taxation in this country certain taxable assets of foreign nationals on the condition that their countries reciprocate. In interest, dividends, patent and copyright royalties would be taxable in the native country of the taxed. Income from business, trade or profession and real estate, on the other hand, would be taxable in the country of establishment.

The measure embodies the recommendations of the Geneva conference on double taxation held in 1928. Mellon pointed out to the committee that this country has already taken steps to relieve the burden of double taxation by allowing deductions for taxes paid in foreign countries and by exempting foreign shipping companies from taxation on profits made in the United States provided that American shippers are granted the same exemptions in the countries from which the foreign lines operate.

DEBATE TARIFF ON CRUDE PETROLEUM OF $1 A BARREL

SOUTHWESTERN SENATORS REQUEST MEASURE TO PROTECT SMALL PRODUCERS

LOBBY COMMITTEE INSTITUTES INQUIRY IN OIL MEN SUPPORTING MOVE

Washington, Feb. 28.—(U.P.) — The subject of oil monopolized senate attention today, both on the floor, where the tariff bill continues under debate, and in the lobby committee, where an investigation of the petroleum lobby was started.

The request of southwestern senators for a tariff duty of one dollar a barrel on crude petroleum was to be the principal topic of debate on the floor. This measure, asked as a protective step for small producers, has gained tremendous momentum since first proposed and its proponents believe they have enough votes to jam it through.

Meanwhile the lobby committee began an inquiry into the delegation of wealthy southwestern oil men which came here two weeks ago for a brief but effective campaign for support of the dollar-a-barrel duty.

Prohibition was a closed issue for the time in both houses of congress. The senate is working under an agreement that excludes wet and dry debate until the tariff is concluded. The house judiciary committee, hearing witnessse on seven bills to repeal and modify the eighteenth amendment, adjourned yesterday until next week when supporters of the bills are to conclude their arguments and step aside in favor of those in opposition.

The house ways and means committee was to hear Secretary of Treasury Mellon testify in support of the Hawley bill to limit double taxation of firms doing business in more than one country.

The New York and New Jersey channel bill was up for consideration by the house rivers and harbors committee.

The senate will hold debate on a proposal for a tariff for long staple cotton as soon as the petroleum fight is out of the way. A duty of seven cents a pound on cotton with staples longer thna 1 1-8 inches was proposed by Senator Shortridge, republican, of California, yesterday, and he obtained unanimous consent to bring it up as soon as the prseent debate is ended.

CAUSE OF WRECK

This heap of metal, scarcely recognizable, was the automobile that caused two electric trains to be wrecked at Kenosha, Wisconsin, which resulted in the death of eleven persons and brought injuries to 118 more. Struck by the first coach of the passenger train, the automobile was struck then by the freight train. The relics of the demolished wheels may be discerned in the foreground. Its occupants? Certainly dead! The license tag was the only clue to the driver.

UNWELCOME ADMIRER THROWS KISSES AT AIMEE, UNDER ARREST

Los Angeles, Feb. 28.—(U.P.)—An unwelcome admirer who stood outside Angelus temple and assertedly threw kisses at Aimee Semple McPherson, today was under arrest. The man gave his name as Tad Jones. After a warning to stay away from the temple, he reappeared last night and was arrested.

NUN CARRIES MANY OF PROTEGES TO SAFETY, THEN JUMPS FROM 2ND STORY

The Pas, Man., Feb. 28.—(U.P.)—Sister Jeanne Chantel, heroine of the Cross Lake Indian school fire in which nine pupils and another man perished, today was sent by train to Winnipeg where she will receive hospital treatment for a broken spine.

The nun was injured when she jumped from a second story window of the school building. She first had guided or carried many of her little Indian proteges to safety.

Sister Marie Des Angels and several children who were seriously injured in the fire and ensuing rush for safety were reported recovering rapidly in The Pas hospital.

BIG BUSINESS MEN ATTACK THE DRY LAW

DRY LEADERS MAKING EFFORTS TO OFFSET ATTACK IN PRESENTING THEIR CASE

FORD AND ROCKEFELLER MAY BE INVITED TO TESTIFY FOR PROHIBITIONISTS

By PAUL R. MALLON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washnigton, Feb. 28.—Although unwilling to admit that anti-prohibitionists have strengthened their case materially during the house judiciary committee's prohibition hearings, dry leaders are leaving no stones unturned in their efforts to offset the vigorous attack on the dry law made by some of the nation's biggest business men.

With this end in view, Henry Ford, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and other prominent industrial and business leaders favorable to prohibition are expected to be invited to testify when the drys start presenting their side of the case next Wednesday.

The drys' plans have not yet been revealed by E. C. Dinwiddie, of the national conference of organizations supporting the prohibition amendment who is in charge of presenting their side in the hearings on proposals to repeal or modify the dry law. Moreover, it is known that despite the drys' certainty of victory insofar as the present bills are concerned, they are anxious to counteract the charges of leading wets with statements by equally prominent friends of prohibition.

The wets who still have several more witnesses to be heard next Tuesday, believe they have amassed sufficient evidence on which to take their case to th epeople in the coming congressional election but they are willing to admit privately they have no hopes of getting any of their proposals reported out by the overwhelming dry judiciary committee.

A summation of the wet case shows the following outstanding developments in the seven days of hearings:

1. Announcement by several outstanding executives, including W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, Pierre S. Dupont, chemical and automobile magnate, that they favor repeal of prohibition in the cause of temperance.

2. An extraordinary display against prohibition on the part of women who have undertaken recently a crusade against prohibition under the leadership of Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, New York. Incidentally, women have comprised the largest and most enthusiastic of the audience throughout the hearings.

3. Testimony of about 10 converts who were for prohibition when it was adopted and are now against it.

4. A wealth of testimony, largely in general terms, charging corruption of enforcement officials in many large cities of the country. Some of these were so specific that the drys are going to try to answer them.

5. A compilation of statistics purporting to show that drinking is on the increase among the young, that deaths from alcohol have increased and that a spirit of lawlessness, highly financed by bootleg wealth, exists in certain sections.

DEMANDS PROBE OF ALLEGED LOBBYISTS WHO BOOSTED FUNDS

REP. JOHN SCHAFFER ALSO DESCRIBES LEE AS "MASTER LOBBYIST FROM N. Y."

SAYS W. T. RALEIGH WAS "FINANCIAL ANGEL" IN PAST WISCONSIN CAMPAIGNS

Washingtno, Feb. 28.—(U.P.)—The last state election in Wisconsin was a "dastardly fraud," Rep. John Shaffer, republican, Wisconsin, told the house today in demanding an investigation of alleged lobbyists who have contributed to LaFollette campaign funds.

Schaffer urged favorable consideration of his two resolutions to authorize congressional inquiry into lobby sasociations, particularly the Raleigh tariff bureau and Richard H. Lee, whom he described as "a master lobbyist from New York."

He said W. T. Raleigh of Freeport, Ill., has been a "financial angel" in past Wisconsin political campaigns, while Lee contributed $5,000 to the progressive republican club of Milwaukee county during the last campaign in violation of the Wisconsin corrupt practices act.

Schaffer said Raleigh's bureau lobbies against higher tariff rates on raw materials used by the Raleigh Company, but not against higher rates on its finished products, intimating Raleigh's interest in Wisconsin politics has been prompted by a desire for legislation personally profitable.

Lee's purpose in helping the LaFollette organization, was similarly selfish, Schaffer continued. He charged that Lee was once employed as a lobbyist by large mail order houses in behalf of legislation to decrease their mailing costs. He said former Rep. Joseph B. Beck of Wisconsin, defeated candidate for governor in 1928, supported that legislation while in congress.

FARM BOARD IN MART TO STAY; WHEAT UP

CONTINUES MARCH UPWARD IN CHICAGO, MINNEAPOLIS; UP 1 TO 2 CENTS

Chicag, Feb. 28.—(U.P.)—Wheat prices continued their march upward today when trading started on the floor of the Chicago board of trade.

Early advances of 1-4 to 1 1-8 cents predicted on the belief that the farm board was in the market to stay until wheat reaches the stabilization price which is $1.18 in Chicago. Strong cable news from Liverpool and South America helped also to bolster the opening.

March wheat, with liquidation beginning tomorrow opened at $1.08 1-4, unchanged to 1-4 cents up, May at 114, up 5-8 to 1 1-8; July 115, up 1 to 1 1-8 cents.

Minneapolis, Feb. 28.—Strong buying in the first hour sent wheat futures from 1 to 2 cents higher on the Minneapolis board of trade today.

May wheat opened at $1.15, compared to yesterday's close at $1.13 5-8, and promptly advanced another 1-2 cent. July wheat sold at $1.16 3-4, up more than 1 cent.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 28.—Wheat futures opened stronger under persistent buying on the Winnipeg grain exchange today. May wheat opened at $1.17 3-4, nearly 1 cent higher than yesterday's close.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Secretary of Agriculture Hyde will reply to the Heflin resolution directing him to report on the advisability of closing cotton and grain exchanges within the next few days and will recommend that none of these be closed, the United Press learned today.

Hyde will leave for Chicago later today to attend a meeting of the advisory committee of the federal farm board's stabilization corporation. He will return to Washington about the middle of next week and will have his reply drafted about that time, it was learned.

The agriculture secretary will be accompanied to Chicago by Chairman Legge of the farm board.

Hyde believes the action of the farm board, of which he is an ex-officio member, in buying wheat on the Chicago grain market last Tuesday definitely has averted what might have been a panic with disastrous results to farmers. He believes, however, it will not be necessary for government agencies to make any additional purchases on the market unless wheat starts declining rapidly again.

Berlin, Feb. 28.—(U.P.)—The foreign and budget committees of the reichstag, sitting jointly, today approved the Young reparation plan, 27 to 23.

The German-American debt agreement was passed by the same vote.

LOBBY COMMITTEE INSTITUTES INQUIRY IN OIL MEN SUPPORTING MOVE

Washington, Feb. 28.—(U.P.) — The subject of oil monopolized senate attention today, both on the floor, where the tariff bill continues under debate, and in the lobby committee, where an investigation of the petroleum lobby was started.

The request of southwestern senators for a tariff duty of one dollar a barrel on crude petroleum was to be the principal topic of debate on the floor. This measure, asked as a protective step for small producers, has gained tremendous momentum since first proposed and its proponents believe they have enough votes to jam it through.

Meanwhile the lobby committee began an inquiry into the delegation of wealthy southwestern oil men which came here two weeks ago for a brief but effective campaign for support of the dollar-a-barrel duty.

Prohibition was a closed issue for the time in both houses of congress. The senate is working under an agreement that excludes wet and dry debate until the tariff is concluded. The house judiciary committee, hearing witnessse on seven bills to repeal and modify the eighteenth amendment, adjourned yesterday until next week when supporters of the bills are to conclude their arguments and step aside in favor of those in opposition.

The house ways and means committee was to hear Secretary of Treasury Mellon testify in support of the Hawley bill to limit double taxation of firms doing business in more than one country.

The New York and New Jersey channel bill was up for consideration by the house rivers and harbors committee.

The senate will hold debate on a proposal for a tariff for long staple cotton as soon as the petroleum fight is out of the way. A duty of seven cents a pound on cotton with staples longer thna 1 1-8 inches was proposed by Senator Shortridge, republican, of California, yesterday, and he obtained unanimous consent to bring it up as soon as the prseent debate is ended.

UNWELCOME ADMIRER THROWS KISSES AT AIMEE, UNDER ARREST

Los Angeles, Feb. 28.—(U.P.)—An unwelcome admirer who stood outside Angelus temple and assertedly threw kisses at Aimee Semple McPherson, today was under arrest. The man gave his name as Tad Jones. After a warning to stay away from the temple, he reappeared last night and was arrested.

HEROINE OF FIRE FRACTURES SPINE

NUN CARRIES MANY OF PROTEGES TO SAFETY, THEN JUMPS FROM 2ND STORY

The Pas, Man., Feb. 28.—(U.P.)—Sister Jeanne Chantel, heroine of the Cross Lake Indian school fire in which nine pupils and another man perished, today was sent by train to Winnipeg where she will receive hospital treatment for a broken spine.

The nun was injured when she jumped from a second story window of the school building. She first had guided or carried many of her little Indian proteges to safety.

Sister Marie Des Angels and several children who were seriously injured in the fire and ensuing rush for safety were reported recovering rapidly in The Pas hospital.

BIG BUSINESS MEN ATTACK THE DRY LAW

DRY LEADERS MAKING EFFORTS TO OFFSET ATTACK IN PRESENTING THEIR CASE

FORD AND ROCKEFELLER MAY BE INVITED TO TESTIFY FOR PROHIBITIONISTS

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washnigton, Feb. 28.—Although unwilling to admit that anti-prohibitionists have strengthened their case materially during the house judiciary committee's prohibition hearings, dry leaders are leaving no stones unturned in their efforts to offset the vigorous attack on the dry law made by some of the nation's biggest business men.

With this end in view, Henry Ford, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and other prominent industrial and business leaders favorable to prohibition are expected to be invited to testify when the drys start presenting their side of the case next Wednesday.

The drys' plans have not yet been revealed by E. C. Dinwiddie, of the national conference of organizations supporting the prohibition amendment who is in charge of presenting their side in the hearings on proposals to repeal or modify the dry law. Moreover, it is known that despite the drys' certainty of victory insofar as the present bills are concerned, they are anxious to counteract the charges of leading wets with statements by equally prominent friends of prohibition.

The wets who still have several more witnesses to be heard next Tuesday, believe they have amassed sufficient evidence on which to take their case to th epeople in the coming congressional election but they are willing to admit privately they have no hopes of getting any of their proposals reported out by the overwhelming dry judiciary committee.

A summation of the wet case shows the following outstanding developments in the seven days of hearings:

1. Announcement by several outstanding executives, including W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, Pierre S. Dupont, chemical and automobile magnate, that they favor repeal of prohibition in the cause of temperance.

2. An extraordinary display against prohibition on the part of women who have undertaken recently a crusade against prohibition under the leadership of Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, New York. Incidentally, women have comprised the largest and most enthusiastic of the audience throughout the hearings.

3. Testimony of about 10 converts who were for prohibition when it was adopted and are now against it.

4. A wealth of testimony, largely in general terms, charging corruption of enforcement officials in many large cities of the country. Some of these were so specific that the drys are going to try to answer them.

5. A compilation of statistics purporting to show that drinking is on the increase among the young, that deaths from alcohol have increased and that a spirit of lawlessness, highly financed by bootleg wealth, exists in certain sections.

DEMANDS PROBE OF ALLEGED LOBBYISTS WHO BOOSTED FUNDS

SAYS W. T. RALEIGH WAS "FINANCIAL ANGEL" IN PAST WISCONSIN CAMPAIGNS

Washingtno, Feb. 28.—(U.P.)—The last state election in Wisconsin was a "dastardly fraud," Rep. John Shaffer, republican, Wisconsin, told the house today in demanding an investigation of alleged lobbyists who have contributed to LaFollette campaign funds.

Schaffer urged favorable consideration of his two resolutions to authorize congressional inquiry into lobby sasociations, particularly the Raleigh tariff bureau and Richard H. Lee, whom he described as "a master lobbyist from New York."

He said W. T. Raleigh of Freeport, Ill., has been a "financial angel" in past Wisconsin political campaigns, while Lee contributed $5,000 to the progressive republican club of Milwaukee county during the last campaign in violation of the Wisconsin corrupt practices act.

Schaffer said Raleigh's bureau lobbies against higher tariff rates on raw materials used by the Raleigh Company, but not against higher rates on its finished products, intimating Raleigh's interest in Wisconsin politics has been prompted by a desire for legislation personally profitable.

Lee's purpose in helping the LaFollette organization, was similarly selfish, Schaffer continued. He charged that Lee was once employed as a lobbyist by large mail order houses in behalf of legislation to decrease their mailing costs. He said former Rep. Joseph B. Beck of Wisconsin, defeated candidate for governor in 1928, supported that legislation while in congress.

FARM BOARD IN MART TO STAY; WHEAT UP

CONTINUES MARCH UPWARD IN CHICAGO, MINNEAPOLIS; UP 1 TO 2 CENTS

Chicag, Feb. 28.—(U.P.)—Wheat prices continued their march upward today when trading started on the floor of the Chicago board of trade.

Early advances of 1-4 to 1 1-8 cents predicted on the belief that the farm board was in the market to stay until wheat reaches the stabilization price which is $1.18 in Chicago. Strong cable news from Liverpool and South America helped also to bolster the opening.

March wheat, with liquidation beginning tomorrow opened at $1.06 1-4, unchanged to 1-4 cents up, May at 114, up 5-8 to 1 1-8; July 115, up 1 to 1 1-8 cents.

Minneapolis, Feb. 28.—Strong buying in the first hour sent wheat futures from 1 to 2 cents higher on the Minneapolis board of trade today.

May wheat opened at $1.15, compared to yesterday's close at $1.13 5-8, and promptly advanced another 1-2 cent. July wheat sold at $1.16 3-4, up more than 1 cent.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 28.—Wheat futures opened stronger under persistent buying on the Winnipeg grain exchange today. May wheat opened at $1.17 3-4, nearly 1 cent higher than yesterday's close.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Secretary of Agriculture Hyde will reply to the Hefin resolution directing him to report on the advisability of closing cotton and grain exchanges within the next few days and will recommend that none of these be closed, the United Press learned today.

Hyde will leave for Chicago later today to attend a meeting of the advisory committee of the federal farm board's stabilization corporation. He will return to Washington about the middle of next week and will have his reply drafted about that time, it was learned.

The agriculture secretary will be accompanied to Chicago by Chairman Legge of the farm board.

Hyde believes the action of the farm board, of which he is an ex-officio member, in buying wheat on the Chicago grain market last Tuesday definitely has averted what might have been a panic with disastrous results to farmers. He believes, however, it will not be necessary for government agencies to make any additional purchases on the market unless wheat starts declining rapidly again.

Berlin, Feb. 28.—(U.P.)—The foreign and budget committees of the reichstag, sitting jointly, today approved the Young reparation plan, 27 to 23.

The German-American debt agreement was passed by the same vote.

CAUSE OF WRECK

This heap of metal, scarcely recognizable, was the automobile that caused two electric trains to be wrecked at Kenosha, Wisconsin, which resulted in the death of eleven persons and brought injuries to 118 more. Struck by the first coach of the passenger train, the automobile was struck then by the freight train. The relics of the demolished wheels may be discerned in the foreground. Its occupants? Certainly dead! The license tag was the only clue to the driver.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

February 28, 1905

The temporary boarding which has shielded the front of the new Ransford hotel all winter was taken down this morning and for the first time the elegant new plate glass front of the new hotel was shown to the public.

Mike Peterson's fixtures have arrived for his new saloon in the Fitger building and he will be ready to start up in a few days.

Fred Kittleson of Grand Forks has arrived in the city to take the position of stage manager of the Brainerd opera house.

Several Brainerdites are planning to go to Minneapolis during the grand opera season at the new auditorium.

If the present warm weather continues for another week hundreds of logging camps in northern Minnesota will be forced to suspend operations and the number of logs which it was intended to cut and haul this winter will be considerably diminished. February as a rule is the best month of the winter to haul logs and the average date for cessing operations is always figured at about March 15.

The work of excavating for the new building on the corner of Front and Sixth streets is nearly completed. The building in which J. F. Murphy & Co. are located still stands, but it is understood that arrangements are being made to move it away so the excavation can be made here also. It will be but a day or two before the mason work will commence.

Miss Jessie Clarke passed away last night at the home of her mother, Mrs. Henry Clarke. Miss Clarke was 28 years old and had lived in Brainerd practically all of her life.

Entertain Whittier Teachers at Dinner

Mrs. A. L. Alexander of 715 North 4th street very delightfully entertained the Whittier teachers at a 6 o'clock dinner at her home last night. This is an annual affair to which this group of teachers looks forward with great pleasure and on this occasion their pleasant anticipations were not unfulfilled.

The tables were beautiful in their decorations of spring flowers and after the course dinner the evening was spent in playing bridge and visiting.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

February 28, 1905

The temporary boarding which has shielded the front of the new Ransford hotel all winter was taken down this morning and for the first time the elegant new plate glass front of the new hotel was shown to the public.

Mike Peterson's fixtures have arrived for his new saloon in the Fitger building and he will be ready to start up in a few days.

Fred Kittleson of Grand Forks has arrived in the city to take the position of stage manager of the Brainerd opera house.

Several Brainerdites are planning to go to Minneapolis during the grand opera season at the new auditorium.

If the present warm weather continues for another week hundreds of logging camps in northern Minnesota will be forced to suspend operations and the number of logs which it was intended to cut and haul this winter will be considerably diminished. February as a rule is the best month of the winter to haul logs and the average date for ceasing operations is always figured at about March 15.

The work of excavating for the new building on the corner of Front and Sixth streets is nearly completed. The building in which J. F. Murphy & Co. are located still stands, but it is understood that arrangements are being made to move it away so the excavation can be made here also. It will be but a day or two before the mason work will commence.

Miss Jessie Clarke passed away last night at the home of her mother, Mrs. Henry Clarke. Miss Clarke was 28 years old and had lived in Brainerd practically all of her life.

Entertain Whittier Teachers at Dinner

Mrs. A. L. Alexander of 715 North 4th street very delightfully entertained the Whittier teachers at a 6 o'clock dinner at her home last night. This is an annual affair to which this group of teachers looks forward with great pleasure and on this occasion their pleasant anticipations were not unfulfilled.

The tables were beautiful in their decorations of spring flowers and after the course dinner the evening was spent in playing bridge and visiting.

CARD OF THANKS.

We sincerely thank our neighbors and friends for thei rassistance and beautiful floral offerings, also spiritual offerings in our recent bereavement, especially the boys at the Tie Plant, employees of the M. and I. office, pall bearers and Father James Hogan.

PARISH ENDORSES BUILDING REPORT

Action Taken at Assembly Meeting of St. Paul's Episcopal Church

COMMITTEE COMMENDED

Proposed New Church and Parish Hall to be Community Asset

The report of the building committee on the proposed new edifice of the St. Paul's Episcopal church, was endorsed by the parish at a meeting last evening at the church following the Men's club dinner. Plans for the new building were presented, the report accepted and a resolution adopted that a committee be appointed to take charge of the project.

Commendation on the work already done by the committee which was appointed at a special parish meeting held recently, was given in the resolution passed.

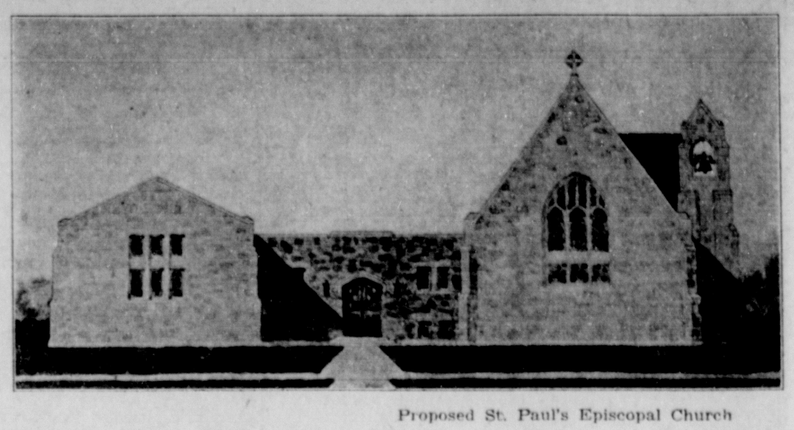

The new building as outlined in the report, will be a Church and Parish Hall built as separate and distinct units but connected by a unit which will contain a vestry room, chapel and study. The outside walls will be fabricated of stone, preferably St. Cloud granite, with a dark oak finish throughout the interior. The Church portion will be 90x30 with narthex, nave, chancel, sanctuary, sacristy and pipe organ chamber. Sunday School rooms will be in the basement below. The unit connecting the Church and Parish Hall is 34x32 and contains a good sized chapel, rector's study, vestry meeting room and store rooms and corridor connecting the Parish Hall to the Church. The Parish Hall is 77x30, the first floor of which will be used for parish activities. There is a spacious stage at one end and the room will seat 250. Coat rooms are provided for convenience at the end opposite the stage. The Parish Hall basement will have a high ceiling and will be light and airy so that it will be used as a dining room with a well planned and arranged kitchen at the east end. The thought is to provide a place for our social activities where the social life of young and old in the parish can best be expressed under sanitary conditions and in the case of the young people under proper supervision. The community use of the Parish Hall is also to be emphasized.

The photo of the artist's sketch gives but a slight idea of the beauty and dignity of the building which will express and reflect the spirit of the people of St. Paul's Parish. They and all who shall take a part in erecting this beautiful structure will take keen delight in pointing out this contribution to the religious life of the Church in the community and Diocese and also mention this beautiful and useful building will be a reflection of civic pride in helping to make Brainerd paramount and attractive and as such is commended to the people, not only of the community, but everywhere, for backing and establishment.

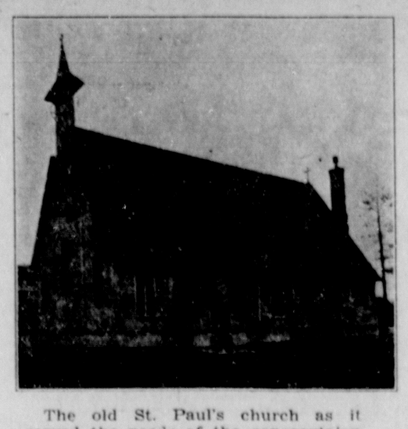

The old building was torn down several years ago after serving its usefulness in order that the spirit of the people in the parish might express itself in a new building form but under the guidance of the same old faith. At that time a basement church was built which has been used in spite of the fact that it is wholly inadequate but now tentative plans have been made to complete the building project started several years ago.

The proposition of erecting a superstructure upon the foundation of the present basement church and in addition provide for a separate Parish Hall unit has been talked of before but it is only recently that the people of the parish were moved to assume the solemn responsibility of this great task. At a special parish meeting held recently it was unanimously agreed that this work should be completed and plans made for subscribing the amount necessary to assure the success of the project.

Over a hundred were served at the banquet which was given by the Men's club of the church at 6:30 o'clock. Arrangements for the banquet were in charge of Harry Carison, general chairman, Archer Crandall, Levi Johnson and Judge L. B. Kinder. Mr. Crandall had charge of the dining room with Mr. Johnson taking care of the kitchen.

NO WONDER YOU FEEL SICK

When Constipation Gets Its Grip You Can't Keep Well.

What You Need Is Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

That tired feeling, that persistent headache, that bad breath are often symptoms of constipation.

There is only one thing to do—clean out your system. Do it now or you may be seriously sick. Your intestines are clogged because you have not eaten enough roughage. And there is no better roughage than that healthful, appetizing cereal—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN is a natural food that brings natural results regularly. Its fiber content sweeps the intestines clean of poisonous wastes. Much better than habit-forming pills which become useless unless their dose is increased.

In addition, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is rich in iron. Scientific research has proved that practically all of this iron goes into the blood—bringing the glowing color of health to the complexion and strengthening the entire body. A wonderful way to enjoy keeping well!

You will like the nut-sweet flavor of ALL-BRAN. Ready-to-eat with milk or cream—fruits or honey. By letting ALL-BRAN soak a few moments in milk or cream, its rich flavor is brought out.

Use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in making muffins and hot breads. Recipes on the package. Sprinkle it into soups, on salads. Mix it in scrambled eggs or meat loaf, add it to every diet.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—recurrent cases, with every meal. Sold by all grocers. Served in hotels, restaurants, on dining-cars. It is the original ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

NO WONDER YOU FEEL SICK

When Constipation Gets Its Grip You Can't Keep Well.

What You Need Is Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

That tired feeling, that persistent headache, that bad breath are often symptoms of constipation.

There is only one thing to do—clean out your system. Do it now or you may be seriously sick. Your intestines are clogged because you have not eaten enough roughage. And there is no better roughage than that healthful, appetizing cereal—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN is a natural food that brings natural results regularly. Its fiber content sweeps the intestines clean of poisonous wastes. Much better than habit-forming pills which become useless unless their dose is increased.

In addition, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is rich in iron. Scientific research has proved that practically all of this iron goes into the blood—bringing the glowing color of health to the complexion and strengthening the entire body. A wonderful way to enjoy keeping well!

You will like the nut-sweet flavor of ALL-BRAN. Ready-to-eat with milk or cream—fruits or honey. By letting ALL-BRAN soak a few moments in milk or cream, its rich flavor is brought out.

Use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in making muffins and hot breads. Recipes on the package. Sprinkle it into soups, on salads. Mix it in scrambled eggs or meat loaf, add it to every diet.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—recurrent cases, with every meal. Sold by all grocers. Served in hotels, restaurants, on dining-cars. It is the original ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

The Rail Merger

THE proposed merger of Northern Pacific and Great Northern does not appeal to officers, stockholders and many other people when the Interstate Commerce Commission chops off the Burlington, which for years has been controlled by the Northerns and which has given them entry into Chicago.

The I. C. C. groups the two Northerns in one system and makes the Burlington the key road of another system.

Some of the I. C. C. rulings when put into practice have sought to change previous traffic flow, as witness the Fargo rate case in central Minnesota. That attempted change of traffic flow has been in large measure a basis for the growth of motor truck traffic in such territory.

Some authorities in transportation claim consolidation of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern without an entry into Chicago would spell large losses for the two Northerns.

According to a news report from Washington to the Minneapolis Tribune, Northwestern senators are lining up against the proposed merger as suggested by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Senator Dill of Washington is heading the fight and is planning to introduce a resolution, expressing the opposition of the senate to the proposed merger, claiming it would affect adversely the interests of seven states. He pointed out that of 11 states that had intervened in he proposed merger, only one had approved.

He said the I. C. C. proposed to do what the supreme court in the northern securities case had said could not be done. He said the reasons that prevailed then, exist now. He intimated that the proposal to cut the Burlington out of the system was for the advantage of the Milwaukee.

"I cannot refrain," he said, "from giving expression to the danger that would result if this merger were allowed to go into effect. These two roads were built as competing lines. It is not a new thing for the railroads to combine. If these railroads were allowed to combine there can be but one result. That is a cutting down on train service, a dropping of some employees, and almost as bad, the moving of many employees, from their present homes and residences to other communities. The whole situation in these northern states would be upset. It seems to me that the commission has gone far beyond any permissable action in the public interest when it permits these railroads to combine into one system, as it proposes to do. I know of nothing that can be done in this connection except for congress to take action to prevent it. I may add further that it is my intention to propose a joint resolution prohibiting this merger being effected as proposed."

Congressman William A. Pittenger of Duluth, also launched a vigorous attack against the decision.

Challenging the legal right of the commission to combine two parallel and competing railroads, he declared steps should be taken to test the validity of the commission's plan under the drastic provisions of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Steps in Dentistry

A LARGE dental convention is in session in Minneapolis and most of the Brainerd dentists are in attendance.

Every year heralds new steps, new advancements in this science. One remembers the old days when the practice was, pull the tooth if there is any trouble. This was fallowed by the theory, save the tooth and fill them all. Then came X-ray examinations and it was found that even some filled teeth had developed trouble of some kind.

Now comes a new theory and it is, give every tooth the benefit of a reasonable doubt and one expert expressed himself in revolutionary manner by saying that X-rays are not 100 per cent dependable.

National Advertising

THE DISPATCH receives reports on butter production in many states and invariably is stressed the fact that butter production is increased, but not one word is mentioned about increased efforts to sell butter, to make the product more popular, to set forth an appeal because of its food value, etc.

Butter producers are facing the inevitable fact that they must unite like the orange growers, the celery men, lemon growers, grape fruit men, pineapple producers, etc., and stimulate their sales by an advertising campaign national in its scope covering small town and city papers and magazines.

THE state law sets a meximum speed for cars on highways and in cities. Nevertheless, it is interesting to read advertisements wherein makers of cars brag of high speeds possible in their cars, some even to 90 miles an hour and far in excess of the legal speed limit.

MORE than 1,000 Minnesota produce men are expected to attend the annual convention of the Minnesota Egg, Butter and Poultry association on March 7 and 8.

MINNESOTA elevators again may be confronted with a shortage in storage space for wheat and other grain, a compilation of the State Railroad and Warehouse commission reveals.

ABOUT 1,000 more cars of freight were shipped from St. Paul in January than a year ago, the monthly carloadings report of the St. Paul Association traffic department said.

THE city street force seems to be acting on the theory that as the Lord put the snow on the streets the Lord can take it away.

CONSTRUCTION of a $25,000 creamery at Williston, N. D., has been authorized by the Farmers Union Cooperative company.

A BRANCH of the Little Theater movement is to be established in Faribault.

"MASTER of MONEY"
BY ROY VICKERS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

WEALTHY Alan Brennaway is in love with Shirley Dane, beautiful, society girl, who is secretly engaged to Roger Kelton. Alan, learning that Roger is to marry Shirley, lends him $500,000. He takes as collateral shares in a Macedonia developement believed worthless. After Shirley and Roger are married, Shirley, ignorant of the loan, is incensed when Roger tells her Alan is trying to force him to go to Macedonia. Receiving a tip from Cynaz, shady financier, Roger visions the reduction of his indebtedness to Alan. Jealous of Alan, Roger comes to the conclusion the loan was made because of Shirley. When Alan warns Shirley of her extravagance, she tells of her investment in Corto Bellas stock. Roger offers Alan $50,000 and Alan wonders where the money is to come from. Roger resents Alan's probing into his "personal" affairs. Next day, the stock drops considerably.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIX.

SHIRLEY had let Alan infer that she was returning in haste to lunch with Roger. As she sat at her solitary meal, she felt guilty about that; she hoped that he would not appear, on some pretext or other, and catch her out at her feeble make-believe. That would mean more criticism—

"Marsden," she said to the butler, "has the paper come?"

"Oh, yes, ma'am."

"Bring it here, please."

Marsden brought it. The heading caught her eye.

"Something of a sensation was caused by the sudden collapse of Corto Bellas, though the drop caused little surprise in well-informed circles. . . ."

Shirley was unversed in money jargon, but she knew where to look for the rise and fall in stocks. She soon found what she most wanted to know.

"Forty points!" she exclaimed aloud. "Good heavens, what a crash! I hope—I wonder—but, of course, it must rise again. We're sure to be all right, really."

As she laid the paper on the black oak table with an ivory-paperknife across it, she saw several letters addressed to herself. Marsden was not too brisk about things—it might be better to get someone else. . . .

Bills, an invitation, more bills—and a letter from her aunt. Mrs. Sibley was an active contributor to her niece's already voluminous correspondence. Shirley read the postscript first:

"P. S. Mr. Cynaz called just as I was addressing this letter and I feel I must add a few words—in fact he gave me a message for you, so I should have had to re-open the envelope in any case, shouldn't I? He is really a queer creature. I don't think, Shirley, that I very much like him, but in a way his bigness fascinates me. He gets an impressive effect just by being—have you ever felt that?"

"P. P. S. He said quite suddenly, while I was giving him coffee—'Is Shirley's husband the greedy fool who dropped a quarter million on Corto Bellas? I told her only to put up twenty-five thousand. Ask her what Kelton's been playing at.' But, of course, Shirley, you're both all right, aren't you? You couldn't be at Pinecliff if you weren't.

"I told him that and he gave that queer, hoarse laugh and said—'Perhaps they've tried Brennaway again.' He simply wouldn't explain."

Shirley, mystified, read it all two or three times; then she took the letter upstairs to her own room.

She was as greatly at a loss as Mrs. Sibley. Roger could not have put more than twenty-five thousand dollars into Corto Bellas for the simple reason that he had not the means of doing so without consulting her—it was her money.

It was with relief that she reflected that "the greedy fool" could not, in any case, have been Roger. If Roger had thrown in all her fortune, that would only have brought it to $200,000. And Cynaz had gossiped of $250,000.

She proceeded slowly up the stairs and [illegible] sitting-room. It was an [illegible] tapestry hung, with window-seats hewn out of the thickness of the walls. Shirley piled one of these seats high with cushions and settled down at the casement to watch for Roger's return.

There could be no danger—absolutely no danger—about Corto Bellas. It was an insult to Roger to think otherwise. For that unspoken insult, she must contrive to make amends.

It was past sunset before Shirley awoke from the sleep that had plunged down upon her. The shadows in the octagonal room had blurred together into a sinister dusk. Outside—she glanced outside and repressed an exclamation.

Rain was already slanting down against a high wind. Above the woods, clouds were massing, purplish, black battalions of them. It was going to be a wild night.

As she tried her weight, gingerly, at first on one cramped foot, then on the other, she, she heard Roger coming up the stairs.

He was coming quickly—running, almost.

She knew, then, from the sound of his running, stumbling haste, that what Cynaz had said was true. Roger was the "greedy fool."

Roger—but how had Roger ever managed to do it?

She knew all—or almost—yet she was not prepared for the truth when she faced it in his terrified eyes. She had leaped to a lamp and turned it on— she felt that in the dark she might catch the infection of his fear.

Into the sudden glare of light Roger came running, stumbling, the marked paper in his hands. As he swung the door shut behind him, she saw rain on his coat. Rain-drops fell from his coat to the floor and the newspaper rustled with them because he was shaking all over.

"Shirley, we—I—my God!"

"It's true, then?" She found herself shouting at him—tried to moderate her tone and could not. "It's true, then—what Cynaz is saying all over New York? You've lost a big sum—a terrible sum—in Corto Bellas? A sum we can never possibly repay?"

In all her thoughts of him, she had never dreamed that Roger could look like this. His face was yellow-white, his eyes enormous; his lips snarled at her and all the time the rain fell from his shaking arms on to the moss-cool carpet of her room. He was choking something out at her.

"It's your fault—you set the pace—how did you think I could keep it if I didn't speculate. Your miserable little twenty-five thousand! What use was that to us. A fleabite! I needed thousands—thousands—" His voice cracked grotesquely. "I wired the brokers to sell yesterday afternoon." He thrust the paper at her. "And look—look what happened yesterday morning. Forty points down—in an hour—it's a quarter million gone into the gutter—all your fortune and more—"

"You've lost a big sum—a terrible sum—in Corto Bellas?"

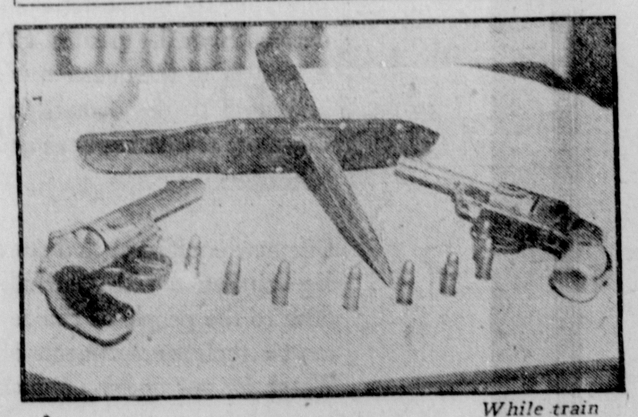

He was crying. She saw it with disgust as she forced him into a chair, loosened his collar, poured him out a stiff brandy, put the glass into his stricken hand. He was crying like a terror-stricken child and he could not—or would not—answer the question she asked him again and yet again.

"I only had $200,000, Roger. How did you get hold of the other fifty? . . . Roger, you must answer me! How did you get hold of the other fifty? Not—not clients' money?"

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

"MASTER of MONEY"
BY ROY VICKERS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

WEALTHY Alan Brennaway is in love with Shirley Dane, beautiful, society girl, who is secretly engaged to Roger Kelton. Alan, learning that Roger is to marry Shirley, lends him $500,000. He takes as collateral shares in a Macedonia development believed worthless. After Shirley and Roger are married, Shirley, ignorant of the loan, is incensed when Roger tells her Alan is trying to force him to go to Macedonia. Receiving a tip from Cynaz, shady financier, Roger visions the reduction of his indebtedness to Alan. Jealous of Alan, Roger comes to the conclusion the loan was made because of Shirley. When Alan warns Shirley of her extravagance, she tells of her investment in Corto Bellas stock. Roger offers Alan $50,000 and Alan wonders where the money is to come from. Roger resents Alan's probing into his "personal" affairs. Next day, the stock drops considerably.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIX.

SHIRLEY had let Alan infer that she was returning in haste to lunch with Roger. As she sat at her solitary meal, she felt guilty about that; she hoped that he would not appear, on some pretext or other, and catch her out at her feeble make-believe. That would mean more criticism—

"Marsden," she said to the butler, "has the paper come?"

"Oh, yes, ma'am."

"Bring it here, please."

Marsden brought it. The heading caught her eye.

"Something of a sensation was caused by the sudden collapse of Corto Bellas, though the drop caused little surprise in well-informed circles. . . ."

Shirley was unversed in money jargon, but she knew where to look for the rise and fall in stocks. She soon found what she most wanted to know.

"Forty points!" she exclaimed aloud. "Good heavens, what a crash! I hope—I wonder—but, of course, it must rise again. We're sure to be all right, really."

As she laid the paper on the black oak table with an ivory-paperknife across it, she saw several letters addressed to herself. Marsden was not too brisk about things—it might be better to get someone else. . . .

Bills, an invitation, more bills—and a letter from her aunt. Mrs. Sibley was an active contributor to her niece's already voluminous correspondence. Shirley read the postscript first:

"P. S. Mr. Cynaz called just as I was addressing this letter and I feel I must add a few words—in fact he gave me a message for you, so I should have had to re-open the envelope in any case, shouldn't I? He is really a queer creature. I don't think, Shirley, that I very much like him, but in a way his bigness fascinates me. He gets an impressive effect just by being—have you ever felt that?"

"P. P. S. He said quite suddenly, while I was giving him coffee—'Is Shirley's husband the greedy fool who dropped a quarter million on Corto Bellas? I told her only to put up twenty-five thousand. Ask her what Kelton's been playing at.' But, of course, Shirley, you're both all right, aren't you? You couldn't be at Pinecliff if you weren't.

"I told him that and he gave that queer, hoarse laugh and said—'Perhaps they've tried Brennaway again.' He simply wouldn't explain."

Shirley, mystified, read it all two or three times; then she took the letter upstairs to her own room.

She was as greatly at a loss as Mrs. Sibley. Roger could not have put more than twenty-five thousand dollars into Corto Bellas for the simple reason that he had not the means of doing so without consulting her—it was her money.

It was with relief that she reflected that "the greedy fool" could not, in any case, have been Roger. If Roger had thrown in all her fortune, that would only have brought it to $200,000. And Cynaz had gossiped of $250,000.

She proceeded slowly up the stairs [illegible] sitting-room. It was [illegible] tapestry hung, with window-seats hewn out of the thickness of the walls. Shirley piled one of these seats high with cushions and settled down at the casement to watch for Roger's return.

There could be no danger—absolutely no danger—about Corto Bellas. It was an insult to Roger to think otherwise. For that unspoken insult, she must contrive to make amends.

It was past sunset before Shirley awoke from the sleep that had plunged down upon her. The shadows in the octagonal room had blurred together into a sinister dusk. Outside—she glanced outside and repressed an exclamation.

Rain was already slanting down against a high wind. Above the woods, clouds were massing, purplish, black battalions of them. It was going to be a wild night.

As she tried her weight, gingerly, at first on one cramped foot, then on the other, she, she heard Roger coming up the stairs.

He was coming quickly—running, almost.

She knew, then, from the sound of his running, stumbling haste, that what Cynaz had said was true. Roger was the "greedy fool."

Roger—but how had Roger ever managed to do it?

She knew all—or almost—yet she was not prepared for the truth when she faced it in his terrified eyes. She had leaped to a lamp and turned it on— she felt that in the dark she might catch the infection of his fear.

Into the sudden glare of light Roger came running, stumbling, the marked paper in his hands. As he swung the door shut behind him, she saw rain on his coat. Rain-drops fell from his coat to the floor and the newspaper rustled with them because he was shaking all over.

"Shirley, we—I—my God!"

"It's true, then?" She found herself shouting at him—tried to moderate her tone and could not. "It's true, then—what Cynaz is saying all over New York? You've lost a big sum—a terrible sum—in Corto Bellas? A sum we can never possibly repay?"

In all her thoughts of him, she had never dreamed that Roger could look like this. His face was yellow-white, his eyes enormous; his lips snarled at her and all the time the rain fell from his shaking arms on to the moss-cool carpet of her room. He was choking something out at her.

"It's your fault—you set the pace—how did you think I could keep it if I didn't speculate. Your miserable little twenty-five thousand! What use was that to us. A fleabite! I needed thousands—thousands—" His voice cracked grotesquely. "I wired the brokers to sell yesterday afternoon." He thrust the paper at her. "And look—look what happened yesterday morning. Forty points down—in an hour—it's a quarter million gone into the gutter—all your fortune and more—"

He was crying. She saw it with disgust as she forced him into a chair, loosened his collar, poured him out a stiff brandy, put the glass into his stricken hand. He was crying like a terror-stricken child and he could not—or would not—answer the question she asked him again and yet again.

"I only had $200,000, Roger. How did you get hold of the other fifty? . . . Roger, you must answer me! How did you get hold of the other fifty? Not—not clients' money?"

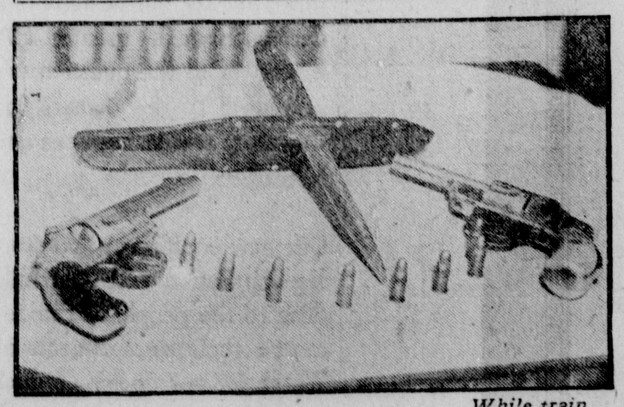

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

SHARKEY WINS OVER SCOTT BY TECHNICAL K. O. IN THIRD

HEAVYWEIGHT BOUT ENDS AFTER 2 MIN. 34 SECONDS FIGHT

SHARKEY NOW LOOMS AS THE MOST FORMIDABLE CONTENDER FOR TITLE

SCOTT'S CLAIMS TO FOUL GOES UNHEEDED; SHARKEY CARRIES FIGHT FROM FIRST

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

Miami, Fla., Feb. 28.—How familiar it all seemed!

There was Phil Scott sitting panting for breath, grimacing and whining that he had been fouled.

There was Jack Sharkey, tense and eager for more battle, tears of excitement and rage streaming down his flushed cheeks.

And there was little Jimmy Johnston, screaming with simulated anger and telling everyone within hearing that he and his Philip had been robbed.

Thus ended the spectacular heavyweight elimination bout, waged last night beneath a star-studded sky amidst balmy breezes while more than 25,000, including notables of the stage, screen, society and so forth looked on in the Madison Square Garden's big arena and hooted.

Jack Sharkey now stands alone as the foremost heavyweight contender of the world, for he won last night on a technical knockout after 2 minutes and 34 seconds of fighting and a minute of frantic, furious argument and uncertainty in the third round.

During that minute, while Lou Magnolia suspended the count and bent over the moaning, gesticulating Scott, with Johnston, the Englishman's second shrieking in his ear, the throng held its breath. For it looked as though the virtual heavyweight championship of the world was going to sail the seas to jolly old England, whence it came.

There had been some apprehension that Scott, victor six times previously in his career on fouls, would attempt to win at Miami by the same method; and with the very first savage body punch which put him down on one nee in the third round, Philip gazed agonizingly toward his corner for advice.

They made Scott get up that time, and they made him keep on getting up every time Sharkey knocked him down, until finally he sagged on the ropes and wouldn't get up any more.

It's a good thing that Lou Magnolia was firm minded on that point, because otherwise Scott would be heading back to England now, claiming the championship of the world, as the result of the seventh flight of his career, on a claim of foul.

Jimmy Johnston was around today asserting that he and his Philip had been robbed, and that a physician's examination after the bout showed that Philip's leg had been paralyzed by a low punch. But the fact remained that the better man won.

Sharkey carried the fight to Scott from the opening bell, and while Phil boxed fairly well and blocked numerous wild left swings to the head, there never was any doubt about the outcome, short though the bout was.

Johnny Risko, who fought Victorio Campolo, the Argentine contender, in the semi-final bout, was robbed of a decision which he merited. The chubby Clevelander, outweighed by nearly 40 pounds, carried the fight to his towering opponent all the way, and everyone except the referee, Kid McPartland, figured John as the victor. It was called a draw.

Jimmy Maloney and Tommy Loughran, two of Sharkey's victims, eked out slender decisions over Moise Bouquillon and Pierre Charles respectively, outpointing the continental heavyweights through superior ring knowledge.

The one foreign victory of the night which saw champions of five nations i naction was attained by Raul Bianchi of the Argentine, who knocked out Sailor Bill Daring in the first round.

The entire show failed to live up to its promise, and the deficit which Madison Square Garden most certainly faced is only the promoters' just reward.

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT OF APPOINTMENT OF BUTLER MAN FORTHCOMING

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 28.—(U.P.) — Paul D. While official announcement not forthcoming from either the Minfo his appointment as Gopher coach is nesota athletic authorities or from Hinkle, it had passed the stage of rumors and is common talk in Big Ten conference circles.

Hinkle, while non-committal, is known to have been in conference recently with Fritz Crisler, recently appointed athletic director at Minnesota. Hinkle would suceed David McMillian at Minnesota.

In addition to th efact that it is known that Minnesota athletic officials are after Hinkle, members of the Butler athletic association have admitted that they are in danger of losing him.

MAY DISCLOSE SOME TOURNAMENT PLAYS IN SEASON'S FINAL

TOURNAMENT SQUAD IS TO BE SELECTED FROM SHOWINGS MADE TONIGHT

PINE RIVER HOLDS A VICTORY OVER MOOSE LAKE; WADENA HAS BESTED PINE RIVER

Coach Warren Kasch's Bulldogs are slated for a busy evening at the Washington high school gym tonight when they clash with Wadena, favorites from Bracket D in the sub-district tournament, while the reserves will attempt to stop Pine River.

This will be the lsat chance for the Brainerd fans to see their favorites in action before the opening of the sub-district tournament at Crosby next Wednesday. The tournament squad will undoubtedly be composed of the players who show up well in this evening's games.

Pine River holds a win over Moose Lake, a team which won 12 game out of a 13-game schedule. The "Kasch and Karry" boys defeated Pine River in the first game of the season's schedule but the Pine River boys may turn the tables on the Bulldog reserves this evening.

Wadena annexed a game from Pine River recently by a score of 24-3, so it looks as though Brainerd will hardly have things all their own way this evening.

Coach Kasch stated today that the Bulldogs may try out a few of their tournament plays this evening in order to perfect them before Brainerd's opening game of the tournament with Pequot next Wednesday evening.

Wadena will, in all probability, present the following line-up: Zozel and Hansen, forwards; Askew, center; Olin and Anderson, guards.

Coach Kasch will start his regular line-up of E. Foster and Hautala, forwards; Guin, center; and B. Foster and Clausen, guards.

The line-up against Pine River will be composed of second stringers and first team substitutes.

The Pine River line-up will be: Martin and Riley, forwards; Jordan, center; Isensee and Carlson, guards.

James K. Michie will officiate as referee. The first game starts at 7:30 P. M.

EXAMINATION TAKEN TO REVEAL ANY DEFECTS SHOULD HE RE-ENTER GAME

Rochester, Minn., Feb. 28.—(U.P.) — Jack Dempsey was scheduled to arrive today to entre the Mayo Brothers Clinic for a thorough physical examination, which his followers have intimated presaged a return to the ring to battle for the world's heavyweight championship crown.

Dempsey, who is en route here from Los Angeles, was said to be satisfied with hi scondition but decided to take the precaution so any hidden defects might be detected.

Word from his Chicago promotional headquarters indicated his action was a "first step in a journey back to the ring where Tuffy Griffiths, Otto Von Porat, Max Schmelling, Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera are now looming up."

CANINES ON EDGE FOR FAST DERBY EVENTS TOMORROW

RACES TO BE HELD ON BROADWAY DURING THE NOON HOUR

LESTER BELL SAYS HE'LL ENTER RACE EVEN THOUGH HIS DOG IS TOO FAT

Entries for Brainerd's annual dog derby under the auspices of the American Legi oncontinued to pour in today. The event, which was postponed from last Saturday on account of the lack of snow, is attracting a great deal of attention.

Because of the interest displayed the event will be run off at noon to permit the shop men and down-town business men to see the classic.

The derby will get under way at the corner of Laurel street and Broadway at 12:30 P. M. after the registration of the entrants at the Y. M. C. A. at 12 o'clock noon.

There will be a free-for-all as well as a senior and a junior event. Prizes will be awarded winners; the prizes being donated by Brainerd merchants. Members of the American Legion will supervise the races and act as judges. They hope to complete the events soon after 1 P. M.

"His name is 'Dip.' He is too big and fat this winter, so I did not intend to enter him this time in the dog derby. But I'll try it just the same. I was waiting to see if there was a Shetland pony race, then I would have put him in to race with them, and Oh boy, I think he'd win!

"He can run fast but he is all the time looking back to see if I am coming too.

"Last year I fell off the sled so I came in 5th. My dog weighs 100 pounds.

"Yours truly,

And so it looks as though the citizens of Brainerd are to see some great dog races tomorrow. Many of the boys have been training their dogs and they are all out to win. No matter who wins there will undoubtedly be some close finishes and a lot of fun.

Will Feats Match Feet?

By HARDIN BURNLEY

EVER since that day not so long ago when an entertaining press broadcast the news that Gene Tunney had marveled at the size of Primo Carnera's feet (the retired champion chanced to meet the latter upon his arrival in America) those size 21 shoes of the Italian giant have been as much in the public eye, so to speak, as Charley Chaplin's used to be.

Carnera was promptly dubbed "Fiddle Feet" by Jackie Farrell, the writing restaurant man from Jersey City. Other wits rang many changes on the acre-covering footwear of the gondola-shod Venetian until he has become "The One-Man Circus of Sock," pugilism's premier pusher-over, and positively the best moneymaking side show attraction the ring racket has yet known.

Primo's Trilbys fit brogans that measure 9 inches across the sole, and slightly more than 18 inches from heel to toe! From the feet up he is built in proportion, weighs in condition about 275 pounds, and is only 6-foot-6, four or five inches short of the height attributed to him by early and circus-like exploitation.

Most sport bugs are anxious to see Carnera fight a fairly good man. He may surprise skeptics when he does by winning, but this particular Sport Bug pictures what cynics think will happen when he does. And "The Sport Bug" gives gratis an idea of how "Fiddle Feet" can add more to his fortune when that occurs by renting as advertising space the most celebrated of soles!

Besides boxing's greatest feet, baseball's are rather modest in the conspicuous dogs of Vernon Gomez, 19-year-old Yankee pitching recruit recently purchased from the San Francisco Seals in a $50,000 deal. Precise statistics have not been released concerning that rookie's ramblers but, if as represented, they may help him conceal his delivery, while putting him "in the bucket" while at bat! This 6-foot southpaw was the Pacific Coast League ace in 1929 (won 18, lost 11, yielded 3.43 runs per game).

Both Gomez and Carnera have likeable personalities. We hope that they become as famous for their respective diamond and ring feats as they are already for their feet! Capitalized FEET indeed ! !

SHARKEY WINS OVER SCOTT BY TECHNICAL K. O. IN THIRD

HEAVYWEIGHT BOUT ENDS AFTER 2 MIN. 34 SECONDS FIGHT

SHARKEY NOW LOOMS AS THE MOST FORMIDABLE CONTENDER FOR TITLE

SCOTT'S CLAIMS TO FOUL GOES UNHEEDED; SHARKEY CARRIES FIGHT FROM FIRST

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

Miami, Fla., Feb. 28.—How familiar it all seemed!

There was Phil Scott sitting panting for breath, grimacing and whining that he had been fouled.

There was Jack Sharkey, tense and eager for more battle, tears of excitement and rage streaming down his flushed cheeks.

And there was little Jimmy Johnston, screaming with simulated anger and telling everyone within hearing that he and his Philip had been robbed.

Thus ended the spectacular heavyweight elimination bout, waged last night beneath a star-studded sky amidst balmy breezes while more than 25,000, including notables of the stage, screen, society and so forth looked on in the Madison Square Garden's big arena and hooted.

Jack Sharkey now stands alone as the foremost heavyweight contender of the world, for he won last night on a technical knockout after 2 minutes and 34 seconds of fighting and a minute of frantic, furious argument and uncertainty in the third round.

During that minute, while Lou Magnolia suspended the count and bent over the moaning, gesticulating Scott, with Johnston, the Englishman's second shrieking in his ear, the throng held its breath. For it looked as though the virtual heavyweight championship of the world was going to sail the seas to jolly old England, whence it came.

There had been some apprehension that Scott, victor six times previously in his career on fouls, would attempt to win at Miami by the same method; and with the very first savage body punch which put him down on one nee in the third round, Philip gazed agonizingly toward his corner for advice.

They made Scott get up that time, and they made him keep on getting up every time Sharkey knocked him down, until finally he sagged on the ropes and wouldn't get up any more.

It's a good thing that Lou Magnolia was firm minded on that point, because otherwise Scott would be heading back to England now, claiming the championship of the world, as the result of the seventh flight of his career, on a claim of foul.

Jimmy Johnston was around today asserting that he and his Philip had been robbed, and that a physician's examination after the bout showed that Philip's leg had been paralyzed by a low punch. But the fact remained that the better man won.

Sharkey carried the fight to Scott from the opening bell, and while Phil boxed fairly well and blocked numerous wild left swings to the head, there never was any doubt about the outcome, short though the bout was.

Johnny Risko, who fought Victorio Campolo, the Argentine contender, in the semi-final bout, was robbed of a decision which he merited. The chubby Clevelander, outweighed by nearly 40 pounds, carried the fight to his towering opponent all the way, and everyone except the referee, Kid McPartland, figured John as the victor. It was called a draw.

Jimmy Maloney and Tommy Loughran, two of Sharkey's victims, eked out slender decisions over Moise Bouquillon and Pierre Charles respectively, outpointing the continental heavyweights through superior ring knowledge.

The one foreign victory of the night which saw champions of five nations i naction was attained by Raul Bianchi of the Argentine, who knocked out Sailor Bill Daring in the first round.

The entire show failed to live up to its promise, and the deficit which Madison Square Garden most certainly faced is only the promoters' just reward.

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT OF APPOINTMENT OF BUTLER MAN FORTHCOMING

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 28.—(U.P.) — Paul D. (Tony) Hinle, head basketball coach at Butler University and builder of championship net teams, will be the new net coach at Minnesota next season, inside information indicated today. While official announcement not forthcoming from either the Minfo his appointment as Gopher coach is nesota athletic authorities or from Hinkle, it had passed the stage of rumors and is common talk in Big Ten conference circles.

Hinkle, while non-committal, is known to have been in conference recently with Fritz Crisler, recently appointed athletic director at Minnesota. Hinkle would suceed David McMillian at Minnesota.

In addition to th efact that it is known that Minnesota athletic officials are after Hinkle, members of the Butler athletic association have admitted that they are in danger of losing him.

MAY DISCLOSE SOME TOURNAMENT PLAYS IN SEASON'S FINAL

TOURNAMENT SQUAD IS TO BE SELECTED FROM SHOWINGS MADE TONIGHT

PINE RIVER HOLDS A VICTORY OVER MOOSE LAKE; WADENA HAS BESTED PINE RIVER

Coach Warren Kasch's Bulldogs are slated for a busy evening at the Washington high school gym tonight when they clash with Wadena, favorites from Bracket D in the sub-district tournament, while the reserves will attempt to stop Pine River.

This will be the lsat chance for the Brainerd fans to see their favorites in action before the opening of the sub-district tournament at Crosby next Wednesday. The tournament squad will undoubtedly be composed of the players who show up well in this evening's games.

Pine River holds a win over Moose Lake, a team which won 12 game out of a 13-game schedule. The "Kasch and Karry" boys defeated Pine River in the first game of the season's schedule but the Pine River boys may turn the tables on the Bulldog reserves this evening.

Wadena annexed a game from Pine River recently by a score of 24-3, so it looks as though Brainerd will hardly have things all their own way this evening.

Coach Kasch stated today that the Bulldogs may try out a few of their tournament plays this evening in order to perfect them before Brainerd's opening game of the tournament with Pequot next Wednesday evening.

Wadena will, in all probability, present the following line-up: Zozel and Hansen, forwards; Askew, center; Olin and Anderson, guards.

Coach Kasch will start his regular line-up of E. Foster and Hautala, forwards; Guin, center; and B. Foster and Clausen, guards.

The line-up against Pine River will be composed of second stringers and first team substitutes.

The Pine River line-up will be: Martin and Riley, forwards; Jordan, center; Isensee and Carlson, guards.

James K. Michie will officiate as referee. The first game starts at 7:30 P. M.

FAVOR McLARNIN TO BEAT MANDELL

Chicago, Feb. 28.—(U.P.) — Odds of seven to five were being offered on Jimmy McLarnin in his fight with Sammy Mandell, lightweight king, by Chicago bookmakers today. A rush of McLarnin money changed the odds which formerly had been in favor of Mandell.

DEMPSEY TO ENTER MAYO CLINIC FOR PHYSICAL TEST

FOLLOWERS INTIMATE FORMER CHAMP WILL TRY RING COMEBACK

EXAMINATION TAKEN TO REVEAL ANY DEFECTS SHOULD HE RE-ENTER GAME

Rochester, Minn., Feb. 28.—(U.P.) — Jack Dempsey was scheduled to arrive today to entre the Mayo Brothers Clinic for a thorough physical examination, which his followers have intimated presaged a return to the ring to battle for the world's heavyweight championship crown.

Dempsey, who is en route here from Los Angeles, was said to be satisfied with hi scondition but decided to take the precaution so any hidden defects might be detected.

Word from his Chicago promotional headquarters indicated his action was a "first step in a journey back to the ring where Tuffy Griffiths, Otto Von Porat, Max Schmelling, Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera are now looming up."

CANINES ON EDGE FOR FAST DERBY EVENTS TOMORROW

RACES TO BE HELD ON BROADWAY DURING THE NOON HOUR

LESTER BELL SAYS HE'LL ENTER RACE EVEN THOUGH HIS DOG IS TOO FAT

Entries for Brainerd's annual dog derby under the auspices of the American Legi oncontinued to pour in today. From all indications a large crowd of boys and their favorite canines will face the starter tomorrow noon. The event, which was postponed from last Saturday on account of the lack of snow, is attracting a great deal of attention.

Because of the interest displayed the event will be run off at noon to permit the shop men and down-town business men to see the classic.

The derby will get under way at the corner of Laurel street and Broadway at 12:30 P. M. after the registration of the entrants at the Y. M. C. A. at 12 o'clock noon.

There will be a free-for-all as well as a senior and a junior event. Prizes will be awarded winners; the prizes being donated by Brainerd merchants. Members of the American Legion will supervise the races and act as judges. They hope to complete the events soon after 1 P. M.

"Buster" Charbonneau, 705 South Eigth streett, told the Dispatch of his entry in the race today. He is enternig a dog by the name of "Alt."

Lester elBl writes the Dispatch:

"I am entering the dog derby with my big Scotch collie.

Vilma Banky's American Pride Finds Happy Outlet in "This is Heaven"

Vilma Banky, star of "This Is Heaven," which Samuel Goldwyn brings to the Paramount theatre tonight and Saturday, was delighted with the oportunity this picture gives her to play the part of a modern girl in America instead of the series of foreign period parts to which her public have become accustomed in her pictures. In "This Is Heaven" Miss Banky's role is that of a Hungarian immigrant girl who finds love and happiness while working as a waitress in a New York restaurant.

"I am an American girl now," she says, quite proud of her new citizenship papers, "and I am tired of being a Spanish princess and a French duchess and an English lady. If I am an American girl, I want to play American girl parts. I want to wear the kind of clothes I do in real life and behave the way I do then.

EXHIBIT WORK BY SARAH THORP HEALD

Painting by Local Lady is Memorial Gift of 1930 Class to Brainerd High

Picture, Historically Accurate, Depicts Coming of First White Men to County

The 1930 class of the Brainerd high school some time ago commissioned Sarah Thorp Heald to paint a picture which will be their memorial gift to the school. They assembled in the school library Tuesday morning for their introductory view of this picture. It measures approximately 5x8 feet, and will hang above the book shelves at the east end of the room, which is not yet open to the public. The date for the formal presentation of the picture has not yet been determined.

Since it is hoped that this picture may be the first of a series that will illustrate local history, the coming of the first white men to Crow Wing county was chosen for its subject. Diligent research has proven that the first white men whose presence in the county is recorded were Lt. Zebulon Montgomery Pike and his men, who traversed the county in the expedition sent ot discover the headwaters of the Mississippi and make peace treaties with the Indians of the northern part of the newly acquired Louisiona purchase. Lt. Pike's own record of the journey shows, by modern methods of computation, that the party halted for the night within the present limits of Brainerd on December 26, 1805, as they proceeded up the river from Little Falls to Cass Lake, the last lap of the journey of which Pike stoically remarks "To one not determined to proceed, the difficulties would seem insurmountable." They carried their supplies in "piroques" (dug-out canoes made by their own crude trade-axes) which they towed through the open water in the middle of the stream, as they plodded through the snow and slush on the ice at the rivers edge. Here, too, they dragged two crude sleds. Belonging to the Second Infantry, U. S. army, they carried the flint-lock muskets and powder horns which were the usual acontrements of the soldiers of that day, rather than the heavy trade guns the length of whose barrels determined the height of the pile of beaver skins the Indians were required to pay for one to the British and French fur traders. Since the army uniform of that period consisted of tight fitting white or light gray trousers, long tailed heavily braided coats and knee length leather boots, the fringed buck skin hunting shirts, leggings and "mocconsins" as Pike names them—like those worn by the woodsmen of the border, were far more practical for the heavy labor and exposures they were obliged to encounter on this trip.

Mrs. Heald has taken great care to see that every detail of the picture is historically accurate, locating the indomitable young Pike, his faithful Corporal Bradley, his interpreter Pierre Rousseau, an Indian guide and, in the distance five more men and two sleds on the river just above the present tourist camp hill, which is seen at the left.

It required determination, courage and patriotism to carry through this project, to blaze the way for settlement, civilization and progress, and inaugurate the effort to convert the wilderness battle ground of two great, savage Indian tribes—the Sioux and Ojibways or Chippewas—into this peaceful, prosperous land we know and enjoy today. Mrs. Heald's effort has been to paint a picture that should daily remind our young people of the cost and the value of their present opportunities.

Fine Corn Seed Stolen While Farmer Visits Wife in Hosiptal

While the cat's away the mice will play. But according to Mrs. A. J. Soderlund, Miller Lake correspondent of the Daily Dispatch it was hardly a band of mice that emptied Floyd Jones' corncrib at Miller Lake recently.

Mrs. Jones was ill at the Crosby hospital and Mr. Jones, as all dutiful husbands should do, went to visit his suffering spouse and while Floyd was away someone drove in with a truck, according to investigations made, and emptied Mr. Jones, franary of some fine seed corn.

Effort to discover the guilty person have been of no avail.

Fine Corn Seed Stolen While Farmer Visits Wife in Hosiptal

While the cat's away the mice will play. But according to Mrs. A. J. Soderlund, Miller Lake correspondent of the Daily Dispatch it was hardly a band of mice that emptied Floyd Jones' corncrib at Miller' Lake recently.

Mrs. Jones was ill at the Crosby hospital and Mr. Jones, as all dutiful husbands should do, went to visit his suffering spouse and while Floyd was away someone drove in with a truck, according to investigations made, and emptied Mr. Jones. franary of some fine seed corn.

Effort to discover the guilty person have been of no avail.

Toasted Coffee? Yes, Nash's Toasted Coffee is toasted, not roasted.

Old-fashioned roasting "roasts out" much of the natural flavor, while toasting actually develops 35% more flavor because it seals in the aromatic oils. No wonder Nash's Toasted Coffee has a richer, deeper flavor!

Protecting your investment with A FAMOUS NAME . . A FINER CAR

The famous name inherited by the New Series Pontiac Big Six is a symbol of integrity in motor car design and manufacture. It is a protection for your motor car investment and an assurance of unfailing dividends in years of dependable service.

And because the New Series Pontiac Big Six is even a finer car than past Pontiacs, your investment in this automobile becomes more secure than ever.

Many important improvements give the latest Pontiac this heightened value. Its large 60-horsepower engine, for example, is now insulated from the frame by new-type rubber engine supports, making it remarkably smooth in operation. A new steering mechanism which acts on roller bearings provides greater ease of control. Its big, dependable, four-wheel brakes have been made still more effective. Improved Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers are now standard equipment. A sloping non-glare windshield makes night driving much safer. And its bodies by Fisher offer impressive new beauty and smartness.

See the New Series Pontiac Big Six before you buy another car. Study the many improvements which contribute to greater value—and which increase the assurance of owner satisfaction that has been the firm foundation of Pontiac success in the past!

TEST VALIDITY OF PROPOSED MERGER OF OIL INTERESTS

1906 SUIT ENJOINING STANDARD OIL FROM ENTERING COMBINE RECALLED

PROPOSED MERGER INVOLVES $1,500,000,000 IN STANDARD AND VACUUM OIL

St. Louis, Feb. 28.—(U.P.)—The federal government took its first step here today toward testing the validity of the proposed $1,000,000,000 merger of the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil Company.

Federal District Attorney L. H. Breuer said he had been asked by the department of justice to forward to Washington a list of the defendants in a suit filed here in 1906 by the government against various individuals and oil companies, charging conspiracy to fix prices in restraint of trade.

Breuer said he had been informed the department of justice "contemplated" starting legal proceedings here shortly on the ground the proposed merger would violate a decree that grew out of the 1906 suit, enjoining the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey from entering into a combination in restraint of trade.

The defendants in the 1906 suit included John D. Rockefeller, William Rockefeller, Henry H. Rogers, Henry Flagler, Oliver H. Payne, Charles H. Craft and between 30 and 40 subsidiary companies of the Standard Oil of New Jersey.

A decree in the case was handed down in 1911 by three United States circuit court judges, all of whom are now dead, enjoining the Standard Oil and the subsidiary companies from entering a combination in restraint of trade. The decree was upheld later by the United States supreme court.

WRECK IN WHICH 11 DIED AND 118 WERE INJURED

At seventy miles an hour these electric cars of the Chicago, North Shore & Milwaukee railroad were speeding toward Chicago! Then a crash! The first car was derailed by an automobile at a crossing at Kenosha, Wis. In an instant the passenger coaches, filled with men, women and children, were hurled into a ditch as if they were matchsticks. This photo shows how the freak accident aligned the electric train's coaches side by side. Twisted metal encompassed scores of persons, dead and dying. The crash caused rails to be ripped up for hundreds of feet.

INTERIOR OF CAR IN WRECK HORROR

Wreck of Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee passenger coach in which most of the deaths and more serious injuries occurred when a motorist attempted to "beat it to the crossing" at Kenosha, Wis., and derailed two trains as a result. Hours of work were required to extricate the dead and injured from the mass of twisted steel, demolished seats and broken glass to which the wreck had transformed an up-to-date steel railroad car.

WRECK IN WHICH 11 DIED AND 118 WERE INJURED

At seventy miles an hour these electric cars of the Chicago, North Shore & Milwaukee railroad were speeding toward Chicago! Then a crash! The first car was derailed by an automobile at a crossing at Kenosha, Wis. In an instant the passenger coaches, filled with men, women and children, were hurled into a ditch as if they were matchsticks. This photo shows how the freak accident aligned the electric train's coaches side by side. Twisted metal encompassed scores of persons, dead and dying. The crash caused rails to be ripped up for hundreds of feet.

INTERIOR OF CAR IN WRECK HORROR

Wreck of Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee passenger coach in which most of the deaths and more serious injuries occurred when a motorist attempted to "beat it to the crossing" at Kenosha, Wis., and derailed two trains as a result. Hours of work were required to extricate the dead and injured from the mass of twisted steel, demolished seats and broken glass to which the wreck had transformed an up-to-date steel railroad car.
